

SPUMCO
5625 Melrose Ave. 2nd Floor
Hollywood, Calif., 90028
(213) 462-2943
FAX (213) 957-1128

OUTLINE: POWDERED TOAST MAN
DATE: Nov.14
VER: 4

POWDERED TOAST MAN
OUTLINE - NOVEMBER 14, 1991

INTRO

We see a series of heroic paintings of Powdered Toast Man as an Announcer voice-over is heard:

The Announcer speaks, "Who is this crusty stranger? What are his powers? Where does he come from? What does he want from us? What is his mission? What is his darkened secret? Why does he wear monogramed panties?"

Powdered Toast man responds, "None of your Goddamn business!"

SECRET IDENTITY

As the episode begins we see a disguised Powdered Toast Man seated at his desk in an office building.

He is disguised as PASTOR TOASTMAN - the cool youth deacon, the disguise consisting solely of glasses and a clerical collar. (Nobody recognizes him, even though his head is still two slices of toast.)

Announcer (V.O.): "Disguised as Pastor Toastman - the cool youth deacon, Powdered Toast Man pretends to do important charity work for the government."

INTRO. GIRL FRIDAY

His secretary enters to inform him that there is a distress call on his TOASTOMOTRON COMMUNICATOR.

Pastor Toastman thanks her.

The voice-over Announcer informs us: "Only Powdered Toast Man's faithful assistant knows of his secret.

PTM's assistant leaves.

DISTRESS CALL

The toaster filaments arc and glow with alternating intensity.

He answers the call by placing his sliced bread head inside the toaster.

The toaster pops, ejecting him into the stratosphere.

In his eagerness to do good, PTM always uses drastic measures to resolve simple problems.

PLANE CRASH ON BUS

A speeding truck bears down on a cute kitten.

"Leave everything to me!", bellows Powdered Toast Man confidently.

PTM thinks fast and uses his PROJECTILE-RAISIN BREATH to make a plane crash onto the truck.

PEOPLE CHEER

People crawl out of the mangled wreck to cheer Powdered Toast Man for saving little Puffy.

Powdered Toast Man waves, basking in their praise.

DISTRESSED SHORTS

PTM's utility shorts balloon out, then contract repeatedly signaling that someone is in distress.

PTM rips a cable from his shorts and attaches two diodes to his chest.

PTM convulses with electricity.

"Egad! Someone is in trouble!", exclaims Powdered Toast Man.

PTM dashes to the south pole.

POWDER KEG

In the middle of the frozen Antarctic wasteland, we see a little shack.

Inside, we see a huge powder keg with the Pope tied to it. The fuse is burning quickly.

Nearby, Muddy Mudskipper, dressed in evil villain garb, rubs his hands together. He sniggers madly.

In a flash Powdered Toast Man appears.

The Pope is relieved.

"Leave everything to me!", Powdered Toast Man says with assurance.

PTM pumps hyper-corrosive croutons from his armpits (hand-in armpit-fart style) at Muddy Mudskipper, chasing Muddy back and forth.

Muddy gets wounded.

Powdered Toast Man frees the Pope and is about to fly away when the Pope says, "No wait! What about Muddy Mudskipper!" PTM says, "Of course! How thoughtless of me."

PTM ties Muddy to the keg, then kisses him on the mouth before carrying the leader of nations to the safety of the skies.

Muddy remains, laughing maniacally, until the powder keg blows.

PTM receives an even more important distress call and is forced to land on a nearby glacier.

GLACIER

PTM sets his pointy-hatted friend down and tunes in his urgent message.

"Cripes!" exclaims Powdered Toast Man. "I'm sorry Mack," he continues, "but a major disaster is at hand."

PTM lunges into the air, leaving him behind.

COMMERCIAL (REN AND STIMPY)

In a flash, PTM appears before Ren and Stimpy.

They're all out of powdered toast!

"Leave everything to me!" says Powdered Toast Man.

PTM pulls his number - one head slice down and scrapes it's burnt back side onto Ren and Stimpy's waiting plates.

Ren and Stimpy are ever grateful.

PTM receives another distress call. It's from the President of the United States.

He leaps out the window.

A moment later he returns to say, "Whoops, I almost forgot." He farts and leaps out the window once more.

PRESIDENT'S ZIPPER

At the White House, Powdered Toast Man is briefed on the high level emergency.

The President is caught in his own zipper.

"Leave everything to me!" Powdered Toast Man says once again.

Powdered Toast Man attaches one end of a string to the President's zipper (offstage) and the other to a doorknob.

WHAM! Powdered Toast Man slams the door.

The technique is successful.

As he is carried away on a stretcher, the President showers Powdered Toast Man with thanks.

PRESIDENT TOAST MAN

Powdered Toast Man runs the country while the President recovers.

He gets sworn into office: "I, Powdered Toast Man, do solemnly swear, to free the Nation of its basic human rights."

The applause is deafening as PTM waves to the adoring masses.

OVAL OFFICE

Powdered Toast Man sits at his desk with his assistant seated on it taking notes.

Feeling a bit chilly, PTM looks around for something to fuel the dying fire.

"Ah, here's some dusty old paper", he says. "This oughta go up real good!"

He stuffs the Constitution with the Bill of Rights into the fireplace.

He and his lovely assistant toast their hands together above the dancing flames.